Fund eight acquisition lines in 2027, for EUR 80,084

The lines closest to the bar that miss it, SOC-KBO, SOC-GAZ, APP-KBO, PART-KBO, SOC-ELN, PART-BHR, SOC-BHR, run between 2.88 and 3.05 times their cost. All four paid social lines and the cashback partner lines at the Rundschau and the Kreisblatt look fundable on their earlier starts' survival, but the starts since late 2025 read far less in their first months than earlier ones and leave correspondingly faster once on the full price (paid social: 9.2% of the November 2025 to April 2026 starts still paying three years in).

The April 2027 list prices add 7.0 to 8.6 points to the share leaving when an introductory price ends, as the April 2025 rise did (at today's prices APP-KBO and SOC-KBO would clear the bar); the 2025 rise's own cancellations began with the notice letters in February and were heaviest among subscribers in their first year, and on today's base the April 2027 rise brings about 394 extra cancellations by the end of 2027. A household that leaves and comes back often does so under a new customer number: counted by household, the July to September 2023 starts brought EUR 151 per start (paid social) to EUR 256 (direct) over 36 months.

Paying digital subscribers at 31 October 2026: 12,230 (Rundschau 5,076, Anzeiger 3,065, Kreisblatt 2,608, Nachrichten 1,481). Run in full, the plan's 2,960 starts in 2027 would leave about 1,869 paying at the end of the year.

The figures assume each line's 2027 starts are like its starts of the twelve months to October 2026 at the offer in the plan (standard 3.3). Every line keeps its side of the bar under the other reasonable specifications in the workbook's Checks sheet, and 39 of 40 redraws of the start months fund the same eight lines.

Starts are counted after the 14-day withdrawal period (standard 2.3); telemarketing's withdrawals run well above the other channels'.
